Expertise in understanding what is best for you. Remodeling? New construction? Let Audio 2000 pre-wire your home or business for the future. Home theater, multi room music, phone systems, surveillance cameras, hi speed internet access & touch screen remotes that automate entertainment and environmental systems are all the ingredients that today's smart home require. If you are a realtor or a new owner trying to pick the most cost effective electronic amenities to make your property outshine others should it go on the market, we can help. Audio 2000 has worked with many builders and interior designers to deliver electronic architecture that cater to the most discerning end users.

All these sophisticated electronics are worthless if there is no ease of operation, which is why Audio 2000 prides itself on designing remote systems that allow the more technically challenged household members to be able to enjoy listening to music, watching a movie or TV program without being "coached". We even go as far as to create personalized instruction manuals to insure user friendliness upon completion of the project.

We offer a multitude of brands at competitive pricing. Our systems are made to order, not based on what is in our inventory. Technology need not color your aesthetic taste. Motorized projector screens, architectural speakers, components hidden in closets, theater style seating, and audio/video furniture are our specialty.

Audio 2000 can make your electronic dreams a painless reality. Schedule an in home consultation today!
